Ultrablast

Modular buildings, cabins & storage solutions you can trust

Compromising on safety is not an option in the petrochemical industry.

That's why leading names worldwide rely on Thurston's groundbreaking Ultrablast range of accommodation and storage solutions for use on high-risk sites.

We are renowned as innovators in this specialist field and are unrivalled as the largest manufacturer of anti-blast units in the UK.

Ultrablast

Engineered for maximum safety

You can rely on Ultrablast to:

- Fully comply with all health & safety regulations
- Meet or exceed stringent blast-resistant standards specified by BP and other major players in the petrochemical industry, including the American Society of Civil Engineers
- Protect your employees and your reputation

Proven protection

Ultrablast all-steel accommodation and storage units are engineered to withstand a force of up to 600-millibar over pressure for 100 milliseconds – the equivalent of exerting an 80-ton force.

They also provide additional peace-of-mind protection against the potential threats of crime or terrorism.

A robust and secure storage solution for all your hazardous materials.

Advanced anti-blast site accommodation

Ultrablast's innovative accommodation solutions provide maximum protection on high-risk sites, combined with exceptionally high levels of modern comfort for all your employees.

Our blast-resistant range can be used as standalone cabins or linked to create much larger modular buildings including control rooms, offices, canteens and toilet & shower blocks.

Ultra-blast all-steel accommodation units are available in a range of sizes or can be manufactured to match your bespoke requirements.

Safe storage for hazardous materials

Ultrablast all-steel storage units are relied on worldwide to provide safe and secure storage for a wide range of hazardous materials.
